1921, when illness forced her to default early in the national championship tournament on the Riviera without loss of a set and won the all-England title at Wimbleton for the first time, defeating Mrs. Lambert Chambers in the challenge round. She also paired with Elizabeth Ryan to take the Wimbledon "doubles crown."

It was not until 1924 that she relinquished either of these titles and then she failed to defend them. In 1925 she regained both the singles and the doubles with Miss Ryan. She won the French championship in 1920, 1921, 1922, 1923, 1925 and 1926; the Olympic Tournament at Antwerp in 1920, and countless other tournaments.

Not a half dozen rivals, including her successor to the world No. 1 ranking, Helen Wills Moody, could even extend her.

She was born at Compeigne, May 24, 1899, the daughter of a French professional.

She was the author of "Lawn Tennis, the Game of Nations," and "The Love Game," a novel.

"Shipping interests concerned have been informed of this proposal and the government will naturally take their views into account," said Sir John.

Almeria is located in the southern Spanish province of that name, and is 220 miles' airline distance southwest of Valencia, in that part of Spain which has been cut off from Catalonia by the insurgent drive to the Mediterranean. Insurgent troops in southeastern Spain hold positions about 60 miles from the port. Last year Germany-bombed Almeria in reprisal for a government bombardment of the Reich warship Deutschland.

Rt. Hon. Wedgwood Benn, Labor, pointed out that a number of British ships had been bombed and machine gunned from a low altitude and asked whether Sir Robert Hodges had explained how these attacks could have been other than deliberate.

Sir John did not reply.

William Leech, Labor, referring to the German reprisal bombing of Almeria last year, asked whether there was "any guarantee that port will not be bombarded by the Germans."

Sir John did not reply.

A second, the bank taxation bill, would increase taxation of banks by an estimated $2,000,000 a year. The tax would be on paid-up capital and reserves.

The third measure, the press bill, would compel Alberta newspapers to print corrective or amplifying statements on government policies at the direction of the chairman of the Social Credit Board.

BIGGAR TO ARGUE

Colonel O. M. Biggar, K.C., of Ottawa, counsel for Alberta, will lead off the argument, followed by his associate counsel, Cyril Radcliffe; Ains. Geoffrion, K.C., for the Dominion Government; W. N. Alberta is seeking reversal of the judgment mainly on the grounds the Supreme Court erred in basing its conclusions against the validity of the bills in large measure on its view that the Alberta Social Credit Act was ultra vires, although it was neither in issue nor relevant, and that the bills were within the domain of the provincial legislature.

The hearing is expected to last until the latter part of next week.

REGISTRATION SLOW

Despite Campbell's insistence that the men will register, as asked by the government, to show where they were previously domiciled, the registration has gone very slowly, the employment service office said today.

A special office for this purpose has been open on Wharf Street since last Tuesday morning. Up to noon today 24 men had registered.

Five men appeared this morning. They were all classed as transients and refused to accept transportation back to their homes.

Of the 24 registered so far only one man has agreed to take transportation. He was sent back to Jasper, Alta.

While awaiting the arrival of the 200 contingent from Nanaimo the local leaders were making preparations to accommodate them. They asked the government for a loan of knives, forks and spoons, but this was refused, Hon. George S. Pearson, Minister of Labor, said.

At the Legislative Buildings today Mr. Pearson said the cost of reopening forestry camps for the men, not even considering a general works program, was out of all proportion to ordinary government relief.

Where the relief allowance for a married man, his wife and one child is $23.50 a month, the cost of keeping a single man in a forest camp around the minister said, is $10 a month.

Spanish Insurgents' Plan For British Ships Studied in London

LONDON (AP)—An offer of insurgent General Franco to make Almeria, Mediterranean port held by the Spanish government, an "immune port" for British ships trading with government Spain was announced in the House of Commons today.

Sir John Simon, Chancellor of the Exchequer, said the offer was being discussed by Viscount Halifax, Foreign Secretary, and Sir Robert M. Hodgson, who returned Friday from Burgos, where he has been British commercial agent.

Sir John spoke as deputy for Prime Minister Chamberlain, who was receiving an honorary degree from Leeds University.

He said Franco's reply to British protests over repeated air attacks on British ships "maintains that ports are legitimate military objectives, but strongly disclaims any intention of singling out British ships as objects of attack."

If the "immune port" idea is accepted, the Chancellor continued, Franco wants "suitable guarantees with regard to the nature of the merchandise carried into this port."

Pointing out Sir Robert's consultations with the Foreign Office were still proceeding, Sir John said the House would have to be content with a summary.

scheme, which took care of 4,700 men for five months, cost just under $1,000,000. This is an average of $43 per man per month but the men actually were in camps only half the period, living the rest of the time on deferred pay.

The cost of maintaining a man in camp was thus about double this figure.

KITCHEN ENLARGED

Since Saturday the 300 men now in Victoria have been taking all their meals at their kitchen at 550 Yates Street. Previously breakfast had been obtained at downtown restaurants as well as other meals for some of the men.

By removing a partition, the hall containing the kitchen has been enlarged to accommodate 470 men at two sittings and meals are now being cooked on two stoves, one of them a restaurant kitchen type. Bacon and eggs and sausages are alternated for breakfast and luncheon menus for the next few days will include stew, liver, tripe-and-onions, ham, burger, pork and beans, clam chowder, peas, beets and potato toes.

The two cooks of the organization are preparing to start baking their own bread shortly with flour that has been donated. A member of the Women's Emergency Committee said this morning no difficulty was being experienced in obtaining supplies. Yesterday the men attended services at six churches of five denominations.

Adrien Arcand, Montreal newspaper editor, was unanimously chosen national leader at Kingston, Ont., where the new party was formed during the week-end at a national convention.

Arcand was expected to speak tonight on the policies of the party as evolved in secret meetings at Kingston. The party slogan is "Canada for Canadians" and the flaming torch was chosen as the official symbol. Arcand proclaimed July 1 "nationalist day" in future because the party formed on Friday.

VANCOUVER—Last night 200 unemployed single men sailed for Victoria by way of Nanaimo. They were due today to begin a trek to Victoria, 80 miles down the east coast of Vancouver Island, in private automobiles and trucks loaned by sympathizers.

The "fourth contingent" was financed by proceeds of a tag day here Saturday. Despite police warnings the men would be arrested for soliciting funds on downtown streets without civic permission, the R.P.W.U. claimed close to $1,000 was collected.

Police arrested 19 of the men, however, on charges of obstructing police. They will appear in court today.

Yesterday the union sponsored a meeting which 2,000 attended.

They heard R. W. Campbell, publicity agent for the union, declare that when 1,500 jobless were in Victoria they would go as a delegation to the Parliament Buildings and demand work.

"If refused, we will go in a body to the employment office and demand transportation to Ottawa," he said.

The meeting also heard representatives of the Workers' Alliance, the Canadian League for Peace and Democracy and the International Wood Workers of America pledge support to the unemployed.

The address was the signal to touch off a light designed to burn forever as a symbol of the friendship that followed the war between North and South. It glows from a bronze urn atop a limestone monument, 40 feet above historic Oak Hill.

The President said the issue Lincoln "restated on this spot 75 years ago will be the continuing issue before this nation so long as we cling to the purpose for which it was founded—to preserve under the changing conditions of each generation a people's government for the people's good."

Mr. Roosevelt said Lincoln, commander-in-chief in war, wanted above all things to be commander-in-chief of the new peace.

SAANICH CRASH

Roland Harper was hurt last night when his car was involved in a collision with a car driven by R. Nichol, Quadra Street, at the corner of Darvin and Saanich Roads.

Saanich police reported Harper was partly thrown from the machine by the impact and suffered rib fractures with concussion and other bruises. He was rushed to St. Joseph's Hospital in the C. & C. ambulance, where Dr. T. W. A. Gray attended him. He was reported resting comfortably this morning.

Mr. Jentsen and Miss Williams were the victims of a head-on crash between an auto and a street car at Oak Bay junction Saturday afternoon. They were accompanied by J. E. Griffiths, 1229 Oliver Street, who was unharmed. Mr. Jentsen was driving the car. The street car was operated by Frederick G. Larcom, 646 Bolekesine Road.

Frank Timberlake was injured in an unusual accident at Hillside and Douglas Streets shortly before 11 yesterday morning.

A police report said he had just disembarked from a northbound Burnside street car and was starting across Hillside Avenue as the street car started. The rear truck of the street car jumped the point at the intersection and started going east on Hillside Avenue. They barely struck Mr. Timberlake, knocking him down.

He was given assistance at police headquarters and later removed to his home.

An accident at Quadra and Bay Streets was also reported to police, but there was no one injured.

No Official Search Report

Father and Eight Children Are Ill

OTTAWA (CP) — Commissioner S. T. Wood of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police said here he "knew nothing about" any search made of the home of Ernest Winch, Co-operative Commonwealth Federation member of the British Columbia Legislature.

Col. Wood stated that if such a search was made he would know about it.

A Canadian Press dispatch from Kamloops at the week-end quoted Ernest Winch, C.C.F. member of the B.C. Legislature, as saying his home had been searched recently for what he termed "evidence of conspiracy to overthrow the government."

The white-haired representative was speaking against a resolution submitted by the Vedder Canal Club in the Fraser Valley district, which urged compilation of a complete list of C.C.F. members in British Columbia by the party's provincial secretary.

"The Royal Canadian Mounted Police came to my home to look for the evidence," Mr. Winch told the annual convention of the British Columbia section of the C.C.F.

"They didn't find it. I told them if they wanted that kind of evidence, they would have to take me. There was no written evidence of that work."

The Vedder Canal Club's recommendation was ultimately defeated.

CLUB OFFICES

Before the vote was taken, both Mr. Winch and his son, Harold, C.C.F. member for Vancouver East and chairman of the convention's constitution committee, told delegates it would not be wise to keep detailed information of C.C.F. membership at provincial headquarters. It was now available at individual club quarters.

"I had the experience, a few days ago of having a policeman give me a complete history of my life—what I have been doing by day, hour by hour," he said.

"Authorities have information now about our active membership," he stated. "Don't let it spread to the membership at large," he stated.

Music Festival Set For April

Interprovincial Conference to Meet Here Next June

LETHBRIDGE, Alta. (CP)—At the annual meeting of the Inter-provincial Conference of Musical Festival Committees, which was held in Lethbridge on June 30 and July 1, the dates for the 1939 festivals were set—with Alberta holding the provincial festival at Calgary, May 8-13.

Dr. J. Frederick Stanton of Chesterfield, England, George Dodds of Newcastle-on-Tyne, England, and Arthur Benjamin of London, England, were chosen as adjudicators.

Next year's international conference will be held at Victoria June 27-29.

British representatives of Canadian musical festivals were re-elected and include Sir Hugh Robertson, George Dodds and Maurice Jacobson.

The desirability of special railroad fares to musical festivals involve the Official Secrets Act against Duncan Sandys, Conservative M.P., and the repercussions of Parliament, were topics of week-end speeches at various points in Britain.

"It is necessary to preserve the freedom not only of members of Parliament, but also of the press and public outside to criticize the opinion, challenge, the activities and condemn the lethargy of the government," Sir Archibald Sinclair, opposition Liberal leader, said at Birmingham.

"These rights should be subject to only one qualification:

the government must have the right to protect secrets which are vital to defence of the country from foreign spies and traitors at home."

"Of course they are entitled to exact from their own servants full loyalty, discretion and obedience," Sir Archibald added.

INJURY TO STATE

Discussing the same issue at

Shoreham, Sussex, Lord Winter-

chancellor, of the Duchy of Lancaster, said:

"Some members of the House

—I am sure without meaning to do harm—are inclined to press for information about our defence measures which in some cases cannot be given without injury to the state."

"As Lord Baldwin (former prime minister) has so rightly said, democracy has its obligations as well as its rights. If it insists on its rights to information, to the neglect of obviously desirable reticence, it weakens our defence far more than it inconveniences the government."

The government was assailed

by Rt. Hon. Herbert Morrison,

Labor, in an address to members of the National Union of Agricultural workers.

Recent events had revealed new the "blundering" tactics of the government, Mr. Morrison said.

"This blundering incapacity is having most serious consequences for the country, particularly in these times of international stress and difficulty."

Sports were keenly contested.

R. V. Boutin was the starter, with

E. F. Le Quesne, J. Jameson, W.

H. Goodman and M. A. Morrow

assisting as judges and linesmen.

Miss Marjorie Alsdorf was the highest woman scorer at rifle shooting, with Mrs. F. V. Rush obtaining the second prize. This feature was in charge of Major F.

Richardson, assisted by Bill Alsdorf. Drum Sgt. Moir obtained the first man's prize, with R. H.

Pearce second.

On Friday night, under the auspices of the women's auxiliary to was presented in the Colwood

Hall by Miss Mildred Bell.

Ayres Forecast Business Rise

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (AP)—

A moderate upswing in business during the final quarter of the year is foreseen by Colonel Leonard P. Ayres, economist and vice-president of the Cleveland

Trust Company.

Colonel Ayres added, however,

in an address to the Graduate School of Banking at Rutgers

University Saturday, that the improvement was "not likely to be very marked because pump priming is slow in getting under way and after it does gain momentum

it is slow to produce effects."

The nation, the speaker said, was "probably at or near the bottom of the present depression."

He described the government's pump priming program as a " really important laboratory experiment in applied economics" and added:

"We are going to test out a great program of national pump priming to find out whether or not the rapid expenditure of huge amounts of federal funds will avail to push the vast machine of American industry into formal motion and so overcome this renewed depression."

A Financial Adjustment

BOTH THE PRIME MINISTER AND Chancellor of the Exchequer Sir John Simon seem highly elated over the financial settlement the British Government has been able to arrange with Germany. It is reported to have given fresh impetus to Mr. Chamberlain's "ambitious plans for a general European appeasement," while the keeper of the treasury calls it a "constructive achievement" and "the latest example of success in the government's efforts to solve international difficulties by the method of friendly agreement."

The agreement reached protects holders in Britain of German and Austrian bonds and follows the demands of financial circles that Britain commandeer German commercial credits held in London to pay interest on these debts in the event of Germany disavowing Austrian obligations. Included in the arrangement are reductions to British investors in interest rates on specific loans which were floated to help Germany's reparations settlements. The Dawes loan of 1924 is cut from 7 per cent to 5 per cent and 2 per cent cumulative sinking fund. A similar adjustment was made to the Austrian 7 per cent loan of 1930. What has been accomplished between the governments at Westminster and Berlin, therefore, is a plan which will prevent dislocation of the existing Anglo-German fiscal and trading relationships.

It is, of course, all to the good that this irritation which existed between Great Britain and Germany, on questions of monetary obligation, has now been settled amicably. Germany has acquitted herself uncommonly well in all her financial dealings with her former adversaries. She vaulted the reparations bill which had been made out against her in figures of astronomical proportions. She paid a few installments to Britain and France on account of the original much-pared-down reckoning with the money—as above explained—she had previously borrowed, mainly from British banks. But they could figuratively whistle for the rest of it. And she has thumbed her nose with greater gusto in the meantime because she has been able to draw upon the "moral" support of Japan and Italy and remind all "whom it may concern" that they could like it or lump it. Her "axis" allies had bluffed successfully—so could she. The new fiscal arrangement with Britain may or may not be a shining light in the Chamberlain government's policy of "friendly agreement." It does suggest, however, that even Germany has found it possible to face the fact that she cannot get away with everything.

The Session

ALTHOUGH IT CONSUMED FIVE months, the session of Parliament which ended last Friday could hardly be called spectacular. It was noteworthy, however, for the fact that the only important change in the taxation structure of the Dominion was the removal of the 8 per cent sales tax from a wide range of materials used in the building of homes—with its direct and indirect benefit to Canadian life in general. A budget deficit of $13,775,000 was $21,225,000 less than anticipated, and if there should be a slightly larger deficit at the conclusion of the 1938-1939 fiscal period, it is fully expected that other compensating economic advantages will appear on the credit side of the country's ledger.

Two important items of national and international significance have been left under the heading of unfinished business: Unemployment Insurance and a new trade agreement between Canada and the United States. Neither will go onto the legislative record of the recent session. For Parliament still awaits the consent of the provinces of Ontario, Quebec, and New Brunswick to an application for a change to the British North America Act which is essential to transference of jurisdiction in connection with this particular program of social legislation. The other six have agreed. Negotiations still are proceeding between Ottawa and Washington authorities—as well as between Great Britain and the United States—in an effort to reach a sound basis for a more mutually-beneficial fiscal arrangement between the two nations.

Few Dominion ministers in recent years have had more to do than Hon. Ian Mackenzie, and few have discharged the exacting and arduous duties of the department of National Defence more efficiently than he. It was not an easy matter to wear down certain opposition within his own party to a national program which, after all, he had to shape to fit a fluctuating international situation. Public life for nearly 20 years has furnished him with an abundant reserve of tact and judgment—and he has still to taste defeat at the polls.

The report of the Archambault Commission on penitentiary affairs was presented to Parliament rather late in the session, and although a governmental proposal for substantial changes in the administrative system obtained the consent of the Commons, the Senate defeated the measure. This postponement obviously will not be allowed to shelve the government's plans for prison reform. Also in the category of unfinished business will remain what still is euphemistically alluded to as "Canada's railway problem." A special committee of the upper chamber subjected it to an exhaustive analysis. Experts and laity had a full hearing. The score remains stationary.

As befitting the occasion, members' labors ended and their belongings in process of packing, the dying minutes of the session were given over to the exchange of pleasantries between Prime Minister King and Leader of the Opposition Bennett. Mr. Bennett will not appear in the House again as chief of the Conservative Party of Canada. Can the delegates now in convention at Ottawa find one among their number whom their former leader's mantle will fit?

Lost Generation?

GENERAL HUGH S. JOHNSON, WHO once headed President Roosevelt's NRA, wrote in his newspaper column the other day about people who keep telling young men and women that they are the "lost generation"—and that the "old men" have betrayed them. The Ottawa Journal likes particularly the part in which the general, after pointing out that young people leaving high school and college these days have a better chance than their parents had, says: "The plain, hard truth is that these kids and our whole population now demand many times more of everything than their fathers did, and are not willing to work as hard or suffer as much for it."

Also: "The present fashion of going around this nation telling people how miserable they are, how rotten their country is, and what little opportunity they have to better themselves . . . is no service either to those people or to the country. It is a contemptible sort of demagoguery."

True as that is, the Journal thinks what General Johnson could have added is this: that while this continent is in a temporary slump, yet as compared with other continents or itself 50 years ago—from the angle of living of its whole population—it is a paradise. Comforts and conveniences that our forefathers never dreamed of are available to millions, and for the less fortunate there is more of help, more of practical care and of human decency and comradeship.

Newspapers the other day reported the "tragedy" of a young man with a university degree "finding himself in a relief line." Well, it may have been a tragedy, but to the Journal it would have been a worse tragedy if the young man were in that relief line without a university degree. After all, a country which enables a young man to get a university degree is not a country about which he should complain too bitterly. If he is worthy of the degree he will reflect that his opportunity to succeed is as good as the next man's; reflect as well that no matter what adversity may come to him temporarily he at least possesses the armor of education, good for its own sake and in itself. If that be his mood, as it should be, he will thank nobody to weep for him.

Mussolini challenged some soldiers to a foot race the other day. The boys did their best, but they won anyway.

Now that an actress has finally been chosen to play the lead in the adaptation of "Gone With the Wind," things will probably start moving a little faster. Who knows? It may be given to our grandchildren to learn what the title will be.

KEEPING B.C. IN A TURMOIL

From Ladysmith Chronicle

As Mr. Pearson insisted, the amenities of our climate and the better treatment accorded single unemployed here, act like a magnet on the whole country's unfortunate. Unless a method can be devised that will anchor the prospective transient and indigent at his point of origin, B.C. will always have a horde of footloose strangers within her gates. While that condition exists, an obliging corps of habitual agitators will bathe on the misery of their so-called comrades, to keep the province in a constant turmoil.

Mr. Pearson's explanation covered these points, and when the people of B.C. take stock of them after the present surge of sympathy for the evicted workless, they will probably find the emotional outlook is less reasonable than the official one.

The error the B.C. government made lay in putting the "sit-downers" in a heroic light, when energy should have been concentrated towards jolting Ottawa out of a sessional slumber.

PUBLIC AND PRESS HOAXED

From Vancouver Financial News

Instead of a spontaneous movement by a desperate army or a bona fide group of single, homeless boys, the Financial News presented the single unemployed demonstration and the Vancouver Post Office riot of June 19 in its true aspect—a Communist stunt from beginning to end, hoaxing press and public—but not the government, which itself was informed of the nature of the leadership.

That there were doubtless deserving cases among the hundreds of misted men, used as Communist pawns in a purely political game, did not alter the situation.

NO SEPARATE LAW FOR JOBLESS

From Toronto Globe and Mail

The principle involved at Vancouver is precisely the principle at issue in the C.I.O. strike in United States last year. In these authority gave way to lawlessness, and it is needless to recall for Canadian readers the disorders which swept the nation. There cannot be a law for the unemployed because they are unemployed and another for the working people. To establish the precedent would be to invite every dissatisfied group in the country to take the law into its own hands and attempt to bully the public through governments into surrendering to impossible demands. Such tactics would have to be opposed sometime. Better that it be at the beginning.

A THOUSAND YEARS

SOME ENGLISH sympathizers have ransomed Dr. Freud, the psychoanalyst, from the barbarians in Austria. He has been brought to England from Vienna to complete his final work, a psychoanalytical explanation of the Bible, surely a charming way to spend the last days of your life. It may be distasteful to some Christians to have sex brought into the Bible, but one authority wrote the other day that in 500 years probably Freud would be better known than any man now living. This may well be true, just as Darwin, an obscure old gentleman in his time, is now seen to have been the greatest force in our civilization in 1,000 years.

In fact, if we could come back in 1,000 years from now it would surprise us to see how many of the figures that stalk and scream and haunt us now will have been forgotten. Hitler will probably be mentioned in a few of the more advanced histories for honor students in universities but will be as unknown to the public as Frederick Barbarossa, another greater German, is to us. Some of the earlier Popes will be better known than Mussolini. I dare say only a few professors will know who Lloyd George was, and perhaps some researcher may come across the name of Chamberlain and Eden Roosevelt in a tattered newspaper, dug up from the ruins of some museum.

It is fascinating to speculate on the names that will be remembered then. Probably the name of some fellow we have never heard of will be in every history book, taught to every child in school, just as no one in Athens ever expected that the annoying old stonemason named Socrates, who used to bother you on the streets with his silly questions, would ever be heard of after his death.

Somewhere, in some dark garret or evil basement, some fellow is scribbling something, discovering something, playing some bit of music, that will live 1,000 years from now, and we shall never hear about it in our time. It is comforting in a way to know that the lads who are getting all the prominence now, who are strutting over the front pages every day and apparently shaking the world, will be as mouldy and forgotten as we are in a century or two, and probably they won't have had as much fun either.

Medium of Exchange

ONE JUDGES BY Mr. Dunning's recent budget speech, and the comments of Mr. McGee, thereon, that the fascinating theory of money and credit still divides the best minds. No two authorities can agree on how the intangible medium of exchange operates, how it flows and promotes the purchase and sale of actual goods from one man to another.

At this season of the year students like Mr. Dunning and Mr. McGee could find out a lot about the medium of exchange and the way to make it work most efficiently if they could come out here and study our primitive economy. You see the haycocks piled in the field yonder. My friend Mr. Pudbury cuts this hay, which I grow. In exchange for it he doesn't give me money, which is a clumsy round-about mechanism at best. He gives me two or three loads of good barnyard stuff, depending on the quantity of the hay. The exchange is perfect and complete. Each of us has what he wants.

Then I use the barnyard stuff to grow raspberries, corn and vegetable marrow. You see how a good medium of exchange contributes to circulate and produce new wealth, whereas with city folk the clumsy thing called money is always getting piled up and sterilized and congested.

Yes, I use Mr. Pudbury's medium of exchange to produce real wealth, and then, at this season my friends from the city flock out here and give them corn, raspberries and vegetable marrow. So you see how my hay eventually reaches the stomachs of the city people. They are eating hay without knowing it. But of course for this efficient circulation of real wealth you must have a good medium of exchange like Mr. Pudbury's.

So far, you see, the circulation of wealth is perfect, but when I give my priceless produce to the city people what do I get in exchange? In exchange the city people put their money in the bank and play golf or go swimming and agree among each other that I am crazy, slaving away in a garden. The joke is on them in the end because they are eating hay like any cow.

COURSE OF EMPIRE

LONDON—The Maharajkumar Shri Pravinsinhji of Sant and the Maharajkumar are staying at the Savoy.

CANNES—The Duke and Duchess of Windsor, who have been using the yacht Frixos, loaned to them by Nicholas Zografos, have chartered the yacht Julzar from Michael Couyoumdjian.

RECOVERY AND MONOPOLY PRICES

Maintenance of prices in certain industries at uneconomic levels has been regarded as a bar to recovery. Thurman Arnold, author of "The Folklore of Capitalism," singles out steel and aluminum as among the chief offenders.

In a speech before the Advertising Federation of America at Detroit, Mr. Arnold gave an example: "The price of steel for building supplies is higher, by $7 a ton, in the middle of the present recession than it was in 1929. Partly as a result of these prices, the industry is operating today at 25 per cent of capacity."

The ordinary business man cuts prices, to stimulate sales, when the volume of trade falls off, but the monopolist—with no competition to spur him on—sits tight.

The world certainly moves. Somebody has just come through with an oil-burning forge for blacksmiths.

Most people, according to a lighting engineer, are depressed by green light. But when they get back of a wheel it is different.

LOT OF THE JOBLESS

To the Editor: Many, so bitter and denunciatory in their attitude towards these unemployed lads who are visiting us, no doubt are either in steady positions or comfortable circumstances. But positions can be lost at a moment's notice, and fortunes may disappear overnight. Many, who previous to 1929 lived in luxury now are sleeping on park benches, or the recipients of pub charity. So think well, good people, about your attitude towards these unfortunate victims of circumstances, for who knows what may befall them in the future.

AN EX-JOBLESS PRAIRIE INSPECTS THE BOYS

To the Editor: —I have read with interest the June 27 letter headed: "Mr. Petter on Problem of Our Jobless." I most heartily agree with Mr. Petter's suggestion of the plan for the jobless here in Victoria and on this Island. I feel very sorry for all these hundreds of unemployed, as I was at different times dead broke in Winnipeg, Brandon, Regina, Moose Jaw, Calgary and Edmonton and I did not know where my next meal or dollar was coming from. So I know what it is.

I took a look in at their headquarters, 550 Yates Street, the other afternoon and I met a young man who was up against it in Regina, and when I asked him if he would like to go back there he replied: "There's no work there, sir."

I told him as I think everybody ought to know that of course we can't tell until the end of July what the prairie farmers' crops are going to be like, because in the three prairie provinces there are always such terribly hot July winds, which dry up everything, or else cause a severe hailstorm to flatten out the crops.

When I took a look at their headquarters, I saw such a nice

Miss Eileen O'Halloran, who is a student at the Sacred Heart Academy, Vancouver, is home for the summer holidays with her parents, Mr. Justice O'Halloran, Beach Drive.

Mrs. Norman Collins was hostess at a tea party at the Empress Hotel on Sunday afternoon in honor of her sister, Miss May Pollard, who will be married shortly. Miss Peggy Franks and Miss Peggy Taylor presided at the tea table. The guests were Messmates W. H. Davies, J. W. Pollard, H. McLennan, C. Rippinagle, H. Bradshaw, F. Hicks, N. Ellis, Al Davies, M. Dunnett, N. Kennedy, R. W. Cross and O. Jacobson; Misses Patricia Grimmond, Peggy Frank, Kay Armstrong, Maxine High, Peggy Taylor, Muriel Skunkling, Marie Thomas, Noreen Creelman, Margaret Davies, Bebe Warn and Laurette McCall.

A miscellaneous shower was held recently for Miss Nora Weeks, a popular bride-to-be, at the home of Mrs. R. Dawes, 64 Regina Avenue. The gifts were hidden beneath a prettily decorated umbrella. During the evening games were enjoyed. A buffet supper was served from a table decorated with pink and green streamers, centred with a bowl of lilies and snapdragons. Among those present were Messmates R. Chapman, W. Nicholls, L. Ashby, W. Churchill, A. Jaffray, W. Weeks, P. McGague, W. Clarke, A. Dickinson, R. Dawes, E. McKinnon, Misses Nora Weeks, Evelyn Sidwell, Dora Curtis, Eileen Lang, Phyllis Sidwell, Laura Woodward, E. Swain, Jean Craig, May Tull, Joy Dempsey, Alberta Aiken, and Messrs. L. Lancaster, J. Stewart and Rev. Dr. Daly.

In compliment to visitors from south of the line who are making the Empress Hotel a popular rendezvous over July 4 weekend, and numbers of whom attended the supper dance Saturday evening, the Empress Hotel orchestra, under the direction of Billy Tickle, featured many American airs. Mr. Tickle also chose hits from the amusingly named motion picture, "Cowboy from Brooklyn," to emphasize the gaiety of the occasion, among them "Ride Tenderfoot, Ride," "Cowboy from Brooklyn," "I'll Dream Tonight" and "I've Got a Heartful of Music." Summer chiffons and the newest sports sheers combined to make the occasion fashionably informal. With Hollywood, New York, and the east and south generally making their summer dancing as informal as possible, Victoria's summer guests do likewise. Tea at the Empress is evidently proving popular with visitors too. Every tea hour from about 3.30 on, the blue lounge is crowded with those who come from east of the Rockies, south of the line and across oceans. Gay chatter in English and of accent is heard, cigarettes of every brand smoked, gentlemen in tropical whites mingle with those in conservative flannels. Most people seem to carry cameras. And if all the pictures taken of the Empress rose gardens now in full bloom were put end to end, they

Guests at Brenta Lodge, Brentwood Bay, include Mrs. P. E. Munger and Osgood Munger, Portland, Ore.; Mrs. A. Maisgen, New Jersey; Mrs. Mary H. Perkins and Mrs. Lillian F. Sherwin, Eugene, Ore.; Mr. and Mrs. John G. Houston, Fort Myers, Fla.

Members of the Second Mile Club will meet in the ladies' parlor of the First Baptist Church on Tuesday evening at 8. A great deal has been said and written in the last few years upon the subject of the ideal wife.

Robert Boothby, Conservative M.P. for Aberdeen and Kincaid, for example, warned bachelors some time ago not to marry any girl until she has proved she can cook, while Mrs. Dobbin Crawford, a Liverpool surgeon, urged that a man and woman should marry for love, should be of the same social scale, the same age, and interested in one another's pursuits and occupations.

A nagging wife is sometimes a blessing in disguise, in the opinion of Dr. John Oldfield.

"Many a lazy man has been nagged into activity and fame by a wife who has made his home life so unbearable that he has had no time to do something to regain his male supremacy," he told a meeting of the Kensington and Lambeth Brotherhood.

The Women's Pavilion, which covers an area of over 15,000 square feet, comprises three halls and a fashion theatre. One hall is filled with materials and handicrafts, representing the work of women in all parts of the Empire; in the second hall are goods for sale, including water-colors, sculpture, beauty preparations, embroideries and damasks; the third hall represents the work of women's organizations, with a panel illustrating all the trades and professions at which women work today.

THE IDEAL WIFE

A Nottinghamshire miner's wife has just been chosen out of 5,000 other women as "the most representative British housewife."

She is Mrs. F. M. Millward of Mansfield, and she was chosen because she had six children, had been married 21 years, was a wonderful "butee," and was really happy.

Mrs. Millward, who is a member of the Women's Institute and the women's section of the British Legion, thinks it

C.C.F. ANNUAL MEETING ENDS

KAMLOOPS, B.C. (CP) — The British Columbia section of the Cooperative Commonwealth Federation wound up its annual convention here early today.

Before concluding the three-day sessions delegates — from practically every electoral district in the province — disposed of questions ranging from provincial policy to foreign policy, which will be submitted to the national convention at Edmonton later this month.

In the provincial sphere delegates opposed annexation of the Yukon — as proposed last year by Premier Pattullo — or any other territory; provided for possible extension of the party into the municipal field; reaffirmed a year-old executive stand against enfranchisement of Orientals, and shelved the question of forming a "popular front."

Moving farther afield, the convention adopted resolutions asking disallowance of the Quebec padlock law and lifting of the embargo on war materials to the Spanish government.

WOULD-END TIES

As to foreign policy, the party's representatives agreed to put before the national convention a resolution urging absolute freedom from military and economic ties with the Mother Country, "though not necessarily refusing aid under certain circumstances."

The resolution also favored preferential trade agreements with countries in line with C.C.F. policies, and favored establishment of defence forces consistent "with our geographical position."

IN TWO FIELDS

The convention early today accepted reports from two committees appointed to direct the party's efforts toward furthering its influence in industrial and agricultural fields.

The industrial committee, headed by Harold Winch, C.C.F., recommended the party do everything possible to bring about harmonious relations between the party and trade unions. It also urged encouragement of organizations among farmers and their correlation with the organized worker on the industrial field.

It brought in four suggestions, which were approved by the convention:

- That C.C.F. members be instructed to associate themselves immediately with their respective economic organizations where such are now in existence, and where non-existent to take steps immediately to assist in bringing into being of such organizations.

- That the convention instruct elected representatives and officers of the C.C.F. to aid in every way the organizing of the unorganized, and to attain that objective they place themselves as far as possible at the disposal of the workers who desire to organize.

- That the speakers and press committees be instructed to impress on the workers in general and C.C.F. propagandists in particular the necessity of stressing the importance and need of organization on the economic field.

- That efforts be made by the economic plan committee to foster harmonious relations between the C.C.F. and organized labor.

OFFICERS ELECTED

Yesterday Wallis W. Lefaux, Vancouver barrister, was re-elected president by acclamation of the C.C.F.'s British Columbia section.

Arnold Webster, school teacher from Vancouver, was re-elected first vice-president.

Mrs. Dorothy Steeves, M.P.P., for North Vancouver, was elected second vice-president, succeeding Dr. Lyle Telford, M.P.P., for Vancouver East.

Secretary-Treasurer Herbert Gargrave of Vancouver was re-elected by acclamation.

The delegates decided to retain the present set-up among the party's legislative representatives, with Harold Winch, member for Vancouver East, as whip and contact man, rather than appoint a house leader.

The decision ended speculation house leadership might fall to Mrs. Steeves, which would have set a precedent in the British Empire.

U.B.C. Girl Wins $500 Fellowship

HOT SPRINGS, Va. (AP) — Kappa Kappa Gamma Sorority announced at its annual convention yesterday the award of a graduate fellowship of $500 to Darrel Gomory, University of British Columbia.

Miss Gomory will study at the Clark School for the Deaf, Northampton, which is connected with Smith.

A special award went to Margaret Campbell of the University of Washington, for foreign study. She now is on her way to Japan to attend the fifth annual Japanese-American conference.

Roy Cook illustrated a gay threesome composed of Andrea Leeds, Charlie McCarthy and Edgar Bergen, who are now at the Oak Bay Theatre in "The Goldwyn Follies."

CAPITOL THEATRE

At last Hollywood has produced a picture that will be appreciated by all, young and old, comedy lovers and to those who demand stark tragedy.

All of this is true of "Port of Seven Seas," which is at the Capitol Theatre with Wallace Beery in the starring role.

The cast includes Frank Morgan, Maureen O'Sullivan, John Beal and Jessie Ralph.

"Judge Hardy's Children," third of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "Hardy Family" series, with Lewis Stone, Mickey Rooney, Cecilia Parker and Fay Holden, is the current attraction at the Atlas Theatre. It is a sequel to "You're Only Young Once" and is the same type of intimate, down-to-earth family comedy, this time taking the judge and his family to Washington, where the youngsters have flirtations and the father outwits the lobbyists.

George Seitz, who has piloted the series since it started with "A Family Affair," directed with deft skill many little touches of humor, pathos and dramatic thrills. Many scenes were filmed in Washington.

While the location was north of the fire zone in the Santa Monica Mountains, bordering the Pacific Ocean, the company and equipment trucks had to pass through the fire lines at Malibu which extended for a distance of five miles. The burnt area ran to the north and east some ten miles with thousands of volunteer and drafted fire-fighters in action.

"Zamboanga" To Open Thursday

Perhaps because they are outwardly unemotional, practically all Oriental people make good film actors. Though usually restrained and seldom violent, persons bred in the tropics can, when the occasion arises, quickly rise to dramatic heights seldom reached by fairer thespians, in more civilized lands.

This is especially true of the Moros of the Sulu Archipelago, who portray all the roles in that the most amazing array of stellar talent ever assembled in a single production is presented in Samuel Goldwyn's magnificent Technicolor musical extravaganza, "The Goldwyn Follies," which begins a three-day engagement at the Oak Bay Theatre to day.

Drawing from every field of entertainment to augment a screen cast headed by Adolphe Menjou, Ella Logan, Jerome Cowan and The Gorgeous Goldwyn Girls, the producer secured radio's Edgar Bergen and Charlie McCarthy, Phil Baker and Kenny Baker, and grand opera's Helen Jepson.

UNUSUAL JOBS—Blind Merchant

Jack Attwood, 25-year-old native son of Victoria, is an energetic young blind merchant.

Eight months ago the local branch of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind established him as news agent at St. Joseph's Hospital.

He had a difficult job at first, for his blindness was a handicap. But the first few weeks were the hardest and then he became accustomed to his stock of cigars, cigarettes, candy and magazines.

"Everyone around here has been very decent," he said, "and I hope to build up my business. So far I'm just getting by."

Young Attwood now knows the doctors and nurses of the hospital and a fair amount of his trade comes from them. Patients are always wanting little things, too, and visitors often buy a box of cards from him on their way to call on a sick friend.

"I never have time to think about my blindness," he said. "At one time I thought I would never get used to it, but now I'm so busy I never worry about it."

In his spare moments Mr. Attwood reads the Braille edition of the Reader's Digest, which has been a boon to blind people all over the world.

His little stall is in the hospital's main corridor and young Attwood hears, but does not see, a great and ever-moving pageant of human life—suffering and happiness, death and birth. He knows by instinct what is going on about him and his affliction has been lessened by the knowledge that someone else always seems to be worse off.

Short-wave radio is his hobby and he is a licensed operator with call letters VESTZ. "I believe that the short-wave work is one thing which gives a blind man a wonderful opportunity to make and hold new friends," he said.

PITTSBURGH TAKES OVER SECOND PLACE

Padres gathered in 11 hits off two Beaver pitchers in the first game and 13 hits in the second game.

After losing the first game to Hollywood 4 to 3, Seattle staged a four-run uprising in the fourth inning of the second game and then added runs in the sixth and seventh-innings to take the clash 6 to 1.

joying an 8 to 4 lead when the breather arrived and were never headed thereafter.

In the last two sessions, however, the visitors hit their stride again and gave the locals lots of opposition. They scored just one goal less than their opponents, seven and six.

Although this game did not have the nip-and-tuck flavor of the earlier encounter on the scoreboard, it was plenty fast and had its many exciting features. Nanaimo was never able to get any closer than four goals to Victoria in the last three quarters, but they were in there fighting hard right to the finish.

Doug Bray and Ralph Baker, two fast-moving stickhandlers, divided the scoring honors on the local side, notching five apiece. Corlett and Ovcharick were high for Nanaimo with three goals each.

The program was staged by the Victoria Dominion Day celebrations committee with the co-operation of the Victoria Box Lacrosse Commission. The Dominion Day perpetual trophy was at stake in the senior match, while the Plowmen Cup was the prize in the intermediate game.

They were presented to the captains of the winning teams by W. C. Moresby, K.C., chairman of the Victoria Box Lacrosse Commission.

During a fireworks display you are likely to see the explosion of pinwheels, flower pots and so on, but rockets are almost sure to be the main thing. High into the air shoots a little bundle of fiery energy, and at a certain point there is a special explosion which sprays the sky with lights, which may be of many colors.

Will the rocket idea ever make it possible for men to reach the moon or a planet? That is a question which many people ask. We are not able to answer it at present, but some interesting

Movie Scrapbook*THEN AND NOW—MARLENE DIETRICH*Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

DEAR MISS DIX—Some years ago I was left a widower, since which time I have given my undivided devotion, time and all the financial means at my disposal. Now they are all grown and working except one boy, who will soon be 13. I love my children dearly and they have well rewarded all my care and sacrifices, but now they have gone about the business of life for themselves and I am not selfish enough to wish it otherwise. I am nearing 50, have good health and have kept myself young sharing the joys and problems of my family. For a long time I have been curbing a desire for the association and companionship of some woman of my own age, but have refrained from marriage fearing to put a stepmother over the children. Now that they no longer need me; except the boy, would you advise me to marry again and try to fill my last years with understanding companionship, or would it be best for me to continue living with and for my children?

A DEVOTED DADDY.

Answer—I think you would be very wise to marry, provided you made a suitable choice of a wife. By that I mean if you marry a woman in your own age class and who has a virtually similar background to yours and one whom you have known long enough and well enough to be sure of her character and disposition. Any such woman would be a good matrimonial risk, especially if she was a childless widow or an old maid.

I am strong for the marriage of the middle-aged because as we grow older and are less inclined to seek diversion abroad, the more we are compelled to find our happiness in our own homes, the more we some cheerful and congenial companion to bear us company and to whom we can say, "Don't you remember?"

It is a dreary thing for a man or woman to eat meals with no one to talk to but Fido or the cat, and to spend long solitary evenings killing time reading about the last murder or playing Idiots' Delight. This is the unhappy fate of numberless widows and widowers who long for mates, but are kept from remarrying by thinking they are too old, or that their friends will criticize them, or because their children object.

"The stars incline but do not compel."
Tuesday, July 5, 1938

Good and evil planetary aspects contend today, according to astrology. The morning is subject to adverse influences, but the afternoon should be favorable.

After the national holiday labor comes under an adverse sign, threatening not only to commerce but to building interests. Internal as well as external troubles are forecast for the unions, which are to meet unexpected defeat in major plans and policies.

Accidents of various sorts will be numerous this month. Drownings and airplane disasters are forecast.

Today promises women success in whatever they attempt. This is an auspicious wedding date, since it presages success and prosperity.

Those who sign contracts today should be extraordinarily cautious. The stars warn of perils, especially in building or steel construction agreements.

Persons whose birthday it is have the augury of a year of obstacles and perplexities. Strife should be avoided.

Children born on this day probably will be exceedingly intelligent and fond of success.

Those who have celebrated it as a birthday include Harris Newmark, merchant, 1834; Cecil Rhodes, English statesman, 1853.
